2016-17 MEDIA KIT

ABOUT ART NEW ENGLAND

Art New England, recently celebrating its 37th anniversary in 2014, remains widely recognized as one of the country's leading visual arts and contemporary culture magazines. With its digital complement, ANEonline, the publication offers critical insight into the exhibitions, artists and trends affecting the New England art scene.

Art New England's presentation and regional focus does not exist in any other publication either in print or online. For an advertiser, this provides a perfect environment for products and services connected to the arts, as well as a direct link to readers highly motivated to receive these messages.

Art New England is published bi-monthly (six issues per year) and is distributed through subscription, on newsstands, in-room hotel distribution and through special events, including direct mail to many of New England's leading arts institutions and schools.

2016-17 EDITORIAL

Covering contemporary art and culture in and around New England and strategically beyond the region, each issue offers features, columns and reviews from some of the region's top writers. Columns include selective, topical coverage of contemporary works, from architecture and film reviews through new works discovered in artists' studios.

Art Reviews and Previews provide regional coverage of the six New England states. Spotlight Art Reviews have a changing geographic focus and give special attention to traveling exhibitions or those with exceptional regional significance. The Illustrated Calendar lists special events including lectures, panel discussions, performances, and film and video screenings.

The combination of the magazine, its web component and its community outreach offer advertisers a powerful and effective connection to the region's most engaged consumers of art and culture.

READER COMMENTS

The energy of the art scene along the Connecticut shore was palpable at Art New England's celebration party at the Florence Griswold Museum on May 21, 2015. It was an amazing night—over 100 artists, museum colleagues, gallerists, and arts patrons gathered here to see Peter Halley: Big Paintings and socialize with one another. The evening was particularly high-spirited, with lots of networking and the sparking of new friendships. Kudos to ANE for holding these artistic evenings that showcase the vibrancy of the arts in New England!

It's been quite an honor to be on the cover of Art New England this issue. I knew Art New England was a regional magazine, but I hadn't realized how widely it touches the area. I've had people contact me from NYC; Providence, RI; and Portland, ME. It's helped me reconnect with many old friends in the arts, and introduced me to new ones. It has really shown me how powerful this magazine is at bringing artists together. Thank you!

I just finished reading your piece on Michael McKinnell in the latest Art New England, and I thought the article was great! It really piqued my interest particularly because yesterday I had the paperwork for McKinnell's Quarry Triptych in my hand (the piece is pictured at the top of page 37 in the March/April 2015 issue). McKinnell was generous enough to donate this work a couple of months ago to the Cape Ann Museum.... We currently have it on display as part of the museum's granite-themed exhibit.

Cate McQuaid's article on Jonathan Prince [January/February 2015 issue], a sculptor we represent, was an excellent survey of his work and an insightful look at the artist. The piece on the cover, One Foot Stack, is front and center in our current exhibition, Subtle, Not Subtle. Your coverage of dynamic contemporary artists helps galleries as well as the greater art community. By the way I haven't forgotten your profile of Jonathan in your June/July 2010 issue, Seven Sculptors to Watch...good call!

Trapped in history is how I felt when I mourned my husband's [Kahlil Gibran] death along with so many of his colleagues who contributed to art in Boston and in America, but whose legacy had been diminished by a noisier crowd. That's the reason I spent four years writing Love Made Visible. Never did I expect a review like the one that just appeared in the November/December 2014 issue. For all the artists whom I wanted folks to remember, thank you. A hundred years from now, I picture a curious soul prowling through an abandoned library stack and discovering Art New England and its attendant works. Then the Boston expressionists will speak again!

Dear Rita:

I would like to take this opportunity to express our appreciation to the staff at ART NEW ENGLAND, for their incredible talent and professional capability. They have and are producing a periodical which is appealing to more consumers than ever before. This in itself is incredible in a market that has been less appealing to normal growth over the past five years.

ART NEW ENGLAND Magazine continues to post growth between 6% and 9% each year since 2009. The major chain bookstores consider ANE a preferred title within its category, and recognize the profit it generates for their business.

We look forward to continued consumer acceptance of ART NEW ENGLAND, and thank you all for the exceptional efforts in developing this quality magazine.

Sincerely,
